

Justin Kasprzyk, MOT, OTR/L

When rehabbing injured tissues, such as muscles and tendons, often tools are used to apply more direct pressure during treatment. These tools can increase the risk of injury to the therapist's hands due to poor ergonomics. Justin, an occupational therapist, used the generate lab to create a customized tool that enables the therapists to perform soft tissue work with an ideal ergonomic grip.